So , actually it's working on our favour . RR looks the worst and continues to play into that narrative of them being awful

It's playing good for us
Bad for them

To- something about ryan claiming the female hired was feminist writer didn't know how to tackle a female film etc Using their own words against them -

And the fact that they saved the script from what they think is a disaster after we had a green lit script and a was strike basically implies they were scabs

8/15/2024 2:00:37 PM

[REDACTED] Justin Baldoni

Which we should 100% lead them to

There is no "truce" here.

Someone should tell his team that we are ready to fight if they keep leaking this shit.

Hi sorry just out of my meeting. Justin—the RR story came out yesterday I believe and incurred further backlash. Media is already calling us about the scab issue, that's what melissa is talking about for Tatiana Siegel who is a big film writer. That's the story she's interested in. We need to be smart about how we hit back. Danny G has already communicated this and his and her teams have been notified. I don't want to lose sight of what the actual issues are. I know with everyone texting you justin and sending you negative press it feels like it's building but it's actually not. The overall narrative is still very pro justin. I like Tatiana doing a larger piece on how problematic Blake and Ryan's comments are to the unions.
